

Editorial Guidelines for Authors

IEEE Blockchain Newsletter: A Collection of Short Technical Articles

1. Introduction

IEEE Blockchain Newsletter is a quarterly publication launched in June 2018 and features timely technical articles to inform and advance blockchain and related technologies.

The newsletter is proactively promoted through the IEEE Blockchain Initiative. This newsletter arms the professional practitioner, as well as the casual observer, with excellent knowledge in a concise, readable, and practical format.

2. Scope

IEEE Blockchain Newsletter is home to information and collaboration that pushes out new and innovative thoughts. The newsletter will explore new blockchain designs, challenges, innovative technologies, applications, standards, etc. And the newsletter will serve as a place to foster research, education, and innovation across different industries.

Write at the architectural level, not at the design level. The article may mention company or organizational efforts; however, direct marketing is prohibited, keep content free from commercial agendas and objectives.

3. Article Preparation Guidelines

The IEEE Blockchain Newsletter Editorial Board invites articles from a broad scope of writers that do not have to be members of IEEE. Each submitted article will be reviewed by one of the editors, and high-level comments/commentary are provided to the authors. There is not a specific template for authors to use for submissions, but please submit articles in Word format. For reference, the IEEE Software-Defined Networks (IEEE SDN) Newsletter, IEEE Softwarization, is a similar type of publication as far as look and style of articles.

- Understandability of audience

The articles should be conceptual in nature and needs to be understood by lay people, a typical electrical engineer no matter what the engineer's specialty is and R&D Scientists—certainly not at the transaction level.

- Article Length

800-1200 words. Look and feel of an introduction with substance but extensible. If your article is longer than 1200 words, please contact the managing editor in advance.

- Citations

At the end of the article, please cite all sources referenced (the reference section is not included in the word count). Hyperlinks within the article are acceptable, but do not count as citation and still need to be included in the reference section at the end of the document. Cite and reference in IEEE style: http://ieeauthorcenter.ieee.org/wp-content/uploads/IEEE_Style_Manual.pdf.

- Pictures and Graphics

Please only use pictures or graphics that you have the right to use or cite.

- Publishing Policy and Ethics

All articles should follow the IEEE Publishing Policy and Ethics guidelines:

https://www.ieee.org/publications_standards/publications/authors/author_ethics.html

4. Deadlines and Schedules

Articles should be submitted 4-6 weeks ahead of publishing date for possible consideration in the upcoming issue. For example, for an article to appear in December issue, the article should be submitted by early November.

2018 Editorial Calendar

ISSUE DATE	DEADLINE TO SUBMIT ARTICLES
July 2018	June 4
September 2018	August 6
December 2018	November 5

5. Review/Editing

The responsible editor will ensure compliance of the article to editorial guidelines and start the review process. Editor will provide feedback and high-level comments to the author for consideration. The Editor-in-Chief will also review the article when finalized and prior to publication.

6. Copyright and Ethics

IEEE Blockchain Newsletter follows the IEEE General Copyright Policies 6.3.1.2 and IEEE Copyright Policy and Procedures (from the PSPB Operations Manual) 8.1.4 B.2. All technical, educational and professional publications of the IEEE, except newsletters, but including Society and Technical Council Newsletters and e-Newsletters, are required to be copyrighted by the IEEE.
